

CEP Magazine – December 2019 US signs CLOUD Act agreements with Australia and the United Kingdom

By Sascha Matuszak

The US forged two agreements in the span of a week regarding the sharing of electronic data for law enforcement purposes with the governments of Australia^[1] and the UK.^[2] The agreements help each government gain access to data, including tracking and analyzing for terrorism, child sexual abuse, and cybercrime. Regarding the agreements, Attorney General William Barr said:
