

ethikos Volume 33, Number 12. December 01, 2019

Deloitte poll: AI use expected to increase in risk and compliance efforts

According to an October 28 Deloitte press release, “Nearly half (48.5%) of C-suite and other executives at organizations that use artificial intelligence (AI) expect to increase AI use for risk management and compliance efforts in the year ahead, according to a recent Deloitte poll. Yet, only 21.1% of respondents report that their organizations have an ethical framework in place for AI use within risk management and compliance programs.” Link to the press release: <https://prn.to/2pQiOsw>

The Deloitte press release included the following questions that leaders may ask:

- Did we set the right tone at the top for our organization on AI ethics?
- What organizational standards have we developed for ethical use of AI?
- Did we conduct an AI ethics gap analysis?
- Do we have a plan in place to educate our workforce on AI?
- Did we alert product teams on what to look for in monitoring AI solutions for ethical compliance?

This document is only available to subscribers. Please log in or purchase access.

Purchase Login