

Report on Research Compliance Volume 15, Number 12. December 08, 2018

Cyber Threat Matrix

By Theresa Defino

Threat actors are the individuals, or groups of individuals, who take actions to induce harm. These actions may be deliberate, or they may be accidental. If the actions are successful, however, the result is some form of harm to the organization or its patients. The below matrix illustrates the actors, their motivations, and the primary and most likely manner in which harm can be actualized.

This document is only available to subscribers. Please log in or purchase access.

Purchase Login