

Report on Supply Chain Compliance Volume 3, Number 2. January 23, 2020

GDPR enforcement actions: UK and Germany

By Sascha Matuszak

Two recent enforcement actions shed light on how regulators will enforce GDPR provisions going forward. In one case, the United Kingdom's Information Commissioner's Office fined a company GBP 275,000 for storing sensitive data in crates on its premises. The crates were not secured and violated the GDPR's requirement for technical and organizational measures to prevent unauthorized access to personal data.

This document is only available to subscribers. Please log in or purchase access.

Purchase Login