

Report on Supply Chain Compliance Volume 3, Number 12. June 11, 2020 Minnesota bans toxic chemical TCE

The state of Minnesota passed a bill banning the chemical Trichloroethylene^[1] (TCE) following an investigation into a wastewater management company, Water Gremlin, that polluted the environment with lead, TCE and poorly filtered used oil. The pollutants caused locals to experience increased cancer rates, which led to the township raising awareness about TCE contamination in their community.

This document is only available to subscribers. Please log in or purchase access.

Purchase Login