

Compliance Today – July 2020 Compliance professional's role in ethical leadership

By Margaret Hambleton, MBA, CHC, CHPC

Margaret Hambleton (margaret@hambletoncompliance.com) is President of Hambleton Compliance LLC in Valencia, CA.

There has certainly been a lot written about the importance of ethical leadership over the past 20 years, and I think we can all agree that ethical leadership from our governing bodies and executive leaders plays a vital role in developing and maintaining a culture of compliance in our organizations. It is equally important for compliance professionals, at every level of the organization, to demonstrate ethical leadership to ensure an effective compliance program.

This document is only available to members. Please log in or become a member.

Become a Member Login