Report on Supply Chain Compliance Volume 3, Number 3. February 06, 2020
The US Bureau of International Labor has apps for compliance and modern slavery

By Sascha Matuszak

Two apps for Android and iPhone released by the U.S. Bureau of International Labor Affairs aim to make it easier for organizations to recognize human trafficking and modern slavery, and be able to create and improve compliance programs for global supply chains.[1] The apps, "Comply Chain: Business Tools for Labor Compliance in Global Supply Chains," and "Sweat & Toil: Child Labor, Forced Labor, and Human Trafficking Around the World," are available to download free from the U.S. Department of Labor website.

This document is only available to subscribers. Please log in or purchase access.

Purchase Login